Monterey Institute Opens Select Weekend Workshops to Community Members

Topics Range from Promoting Good Governance to Pakistan and the Bomb

Monterey, CA—This fall the Monterey Institute of International Studies will open select weekend workshops in Monterey, California to community members. The two and three-day classes will be held at the Institute's downtown campus, and led by both Monterey Institute professors and contracted instructors.

Course topics include North Korea's Ballistic Missiles Programs, Educational Strategies for Good Global Governance, Terrorism Threat Assessment, Pakistan and the Bomb, Quantitative Methods for Liberal Arts Students, and Assistance and Protection Against Chemical Weapons.

The Monterey Institute's unique and engaging workshops are ideal for students, practitioners, career-changers, and academics as well as anyone who wants to learn something new or strengthen an existing skill set.
